ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City—constantly changing with the seasons, yet constant in its charm! Atlantic City stands pre-eminent among the great resorts of the world, chiefly because of its year-'round popularity—unfading throughout the year, unfailing throughout the years. The brilliant Boardwalk, magnificent hotels, beautiful homes, an endless variety of seasonal sports and amusements—this is Atlantic City—varying in mood with the changing seasons—but charming always.

Possessed of the finest and safest bathing beach along the eastern seaboard, Atlantic City is America's outstanding bathing resort. Seven miles of broad, firm, gently-sloping, immaculate white strand borders the tossing, tumbling surf, and provides a vast summer playground, where millions of visitors revel each year from May to October.

The famous Boardwalk—alluring, pulse-quickening, beautiful at every turn—is an enduring inspiration to all who traverse this broad marine esplanade. Splendid hotels, great masses of imposing architecture, range at frequent intervals along the land side of the Walk. Quaint shops, full of interest to promenaders, display merchandise from every corner of the globe. Here one also finds excellent theatres, charming restaurants, and handsome display rooms where are shown the products of many of America's greatest industries.

Unique among world institutions, the Boardwalk is perhaps most adequately described to those who have never seen it by likening it to the deck of an immense ocean liner—a ship seven miles in length. Standing at the rail that runs along the entire ocean side of the Boardwalk, the visitor has an unobstructed view of the mighty, rolling Atlantic and it requires but little imagination to picture oneself far out at sea.

Completing the illusion and in keeping with the great length of this "promenade deck," the hundreds of rolling chairs remind one of the familiar deck chairs and permit of the same complete relaxation.

The very name Atlantic City suggests wholesome play, relaxation, freedom from care—re-creation—and something of the joyous spirit of youth enters into the life of every visitor to this famous playground.

Atlantic City offers an unusual diversity of outdoor sports. Golf is played throughout the year on three splendid eighteen-hole courses. Bathing, the finest in the world, is enjoyed by millions from May to October. Yachting on the ocean and inland bays offers recreation unrivalled for picturesqueness. The large public sailing fleet at the Inlet insures to every visitor the enjoyment of this delightful marine sport. Horseback-riding lends a smart, colorful touch to Boardwalk views from October to June, when the entire beach is given over to this exhilarating form of recreation. Many Shetland ponies are the daily delight of the children during these months. Fishing, on the bays, from the piers or at sea, is rewarded with excellent catches of weakfish, bluefish, croakers, kingfish, tuna, fluke and channel bass. The splendid ocean pier and completely equipped club house of the Anglers' Club are available to visiting fishermen.

Aviation is afforded to visitors through the fleet of passenger-carrying seaplanes stationed at the Inlet. Atlantic City is the proud possessor of America's first municipal aviation station, the Airport. Tennis, on many excellent municipal courts, commands a large and devoted following. Gunning here presents the choice of trying one's luck either in the woods, where deer, foxes, rabbits, quail and pheasants are to be had, or along the inland waterways for plover, reedbirds, ducks, yellow-legs and geese. Trapshooting grows steadily in favor in Atlantic City. The Westy Hogan Shooting Lodge is equipped with modern tilting base traps, and is the scene of many important matches. In addition, there is successful night trapshooting by artificial light.

ATLANTIC CITY, THE WORLD'S PLAYGROUND

Amusements—With Atlantic City's many and varied attractions bidding for attention, the visitor is perplexed not so much with "What shall we do?" as with "Which shall we do?" For here in this greatest of all pleasure resorts there is a diversity and abundance of entertainment that beggars description. The latest and best in stage productions, moving pictures and vaudeville—concerts by the world's most famous bands—vocal and instrumental recitals by artists of renown—dancing in the many beautiful ball rooms to the irresistible music of well-known dance orchestras—a seemingly unlimited choice of pleasant, wholesome entertainment.

The six great ocean piers—Heinz, Garden, Steel, Steeplechase, Central and Million Dollar—each has a complete and distinctive program of entertainment, and constitute one of Atlantic City's greatest attractions.

Hotels—Essentially a city of entertainment, Atlantic City's hotels meet the most exacting demands from the standpoint of comfort, elegance and price. Architecturally beautiful, many of the hotels rise massively and majestically from the ocean's edge and provide a fitting setting for the kaleidoscopic panorama of Boardwalk, beach and ocean that stretches before them.

Lacking in some of the luxury and elegance of the larger hotels and yet matching them in comfort, the moderately priced hotels furnish accommodations of a superior excellence for the reasonable rates quoted.

Convention City—In all America there is no other city that so completely meets the requirements of conventions. Ample and excellent hotel accommodations, a variety of entertainment, splendid halls for meetings and trade exhibitions, and, above all, an atmosphere conducive to the successful conduct of convention deliberations—these things have made Atlantic City the most delightful of all convention cities.

As a nation we could still use ten times as much electricity to advantage. As individuals, we appreciate its universal usefulness.

In every home where electric light makes living clearer and electric power lightens work—in every street where we tread more surely and ride more swiftly—in every industry where light and power save the eyes and backs of labor—there are still opportunities for a greater and better use of electricity.

A review of some of the more recent electrical inventions will provide both profit and entertainment.
